ARROWHEAD FOR 1950

Published by
THE SENIOR CLASS of
Burlington High School

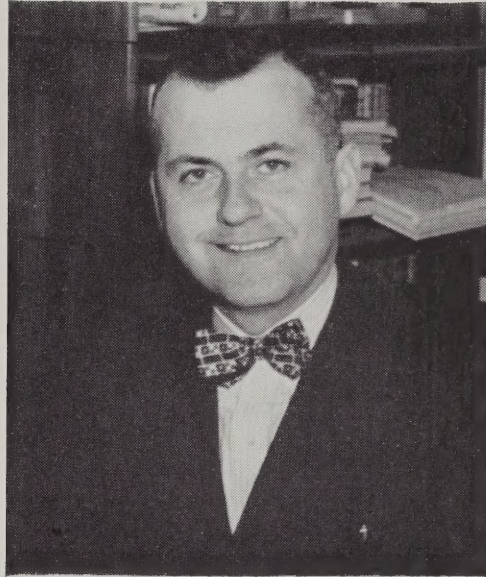

Dedication

We, the graduating class of 1950 of the Burlington High School, extend our affectionate gratitude to Mr. Lynch and Mr. Thomas.

They have given us such guidance, encouragement, and help in our school lives that our best endeavors and achievements hereafter can alone requite our debt to them.

Message From The Superintendent

To you, the graduates of the class of 1950, I extend my sincere congratulations upon the completion of your high school careers. As you take leave of Burlington High School, I would entreat you to pursue life's challenges with the same seriousness of purpose and determination to succeed, as you did the problems that confronted you during your high school days. Such perserverance will certainly make for a happier and more successful life.

If at any time you feel I can be of assistance to you, do not hesitate to call upon me.

Sincerely,
Jerome J. Lynch
Superintendent of Schools

Class Poem

We know not the plan of future years,
What pattern of life we shall find;
Our journey commences through toil and tears,
As we leave our school days behind.

The road may be long and the travel rough,
For that is the highway of life,
But deep in our hearts there'll be courage enough
To carry us on through the strife.

Mysterious path with a million quick turns
And secrets we still have to know.
The spirit of conquest within us will burn
As onward and forward we go.

The future is ours to make and to mold.
Through courage our dreams will come true.
The memories we know are to have and to hold,
To build on with plans bright and new.

Dorothy Johnson

Class Song

With heavy hearts we now depart
To face our future years.
Sweet memories of days gone by
Now bring us many tears.

Your guiding hand, dear Burlington,
Has taught us grief and mirth.
Your teachings will remain with us
From dawn to 'morrow's birth.

We're proud to have been part of you
And leaving brings much pain.
In future years when we look back
We'll find our youth again.

Class History

Twelve long years ago, an earth-shaking event took place in the peaceful little town of Burlington, Massachusetts. It shook only only a tiny portion of the earth, however, for only the inhabitants of the town itself knew that it had occurred. It is now time for the rest of the world to be informed, because it may have far-reaching results which will affect all parts of the globe.

Twelve years ago, a group of students entered Burlington's Union School. "A rather ordinary event," you may think to yourself, but you are wrong, dear reader. These students were not ordinary then, nor are they ordinary now. To illustrate my statement, let me retrace their steps through the twelve years previously mentioned.

The first six years constituted a valiant struggle from which the class members emerged victorious, although a bit the worse for wear. When I say victorious, I mean, naturally, that through persistence and perseverance they had succeeded in convincing themselves that they had very little more to learn. Graduation exercises were a procession toward their own Arc de Triomphe, Burlington High School.

To say that the first day in the high school was a shock would be an understatement. From lordly sixth graders who "knew everything", they were demoted to the baby class where they painfully discovered that they weren't too important. All sorts of innovations confused them. Instead of remaining one class, they became two divisions. They were tormented, plagued, and subjected to a myriad of rules and regulations. They discovered pleasant affairs such as dances, and unpleasant affairs such as detention hall. They had violent disagreements with stubborn lockers and mild differences of opinion with equally stubborn traffic officers. They attended proms and basketball games and went on outings to Canobie Lake. Of course, as a background to all other activities, they studied and studied and studied.

Now at the end of one dozen years, they feel that they have learned a sufficient amount to enable them to take their various places in life. This year will mark their graduation from high school. That world-shaking event of which I spoke has reached its climax; the students who entered twelve years ago are now leaving their school years behind.

Sit up and take notice, World. Here comes Burlington's Class of 1950.

Class Prophecy

Step into the dream of the future with me.
It holds some surprises as you will soon see.
The cloud we are riding on drifts to a halt.
As a type of conveyance it is without fault.
The spot we are in seems a sizeable town
And thousands of people are milling around.
Such excitement. What causes it? Maybe a fire?

One way to find out. I'll ask the Town crier.
He says it's election year. This part I quote,
"Robert Wallace leads all by just one half a vote."

His female opponents are weeping with woe.
B. Jackson, C. Powers, to the kitchen you go.
Don't stand there and gloat. If you stay where you are
You'll be killed by the fiend in the on-rushing car.

Step up on the curbstone and wave as they pass.

"Speed" Bennett has broken the record at last.
He steps to the ground and is hurried away
To station marked "Closed. Chief not working today."

The Chief of Police, Robert Perkins by name,
Right now is in Africa, hunting big game.
That settles that. Guilty "Speed" is set free.
He's late for a party and, in fact, so are we,
At the home of the only man over sixteen
Who is happy and single; the great John Kinneen.

Let us push past the classics stacked up in the hall

And find if they're serving refreshments at all.
The "Catering Cuties" know all kitchen arts,
J. Foster, J. Johnson know the way to men's hearts.

The banquet they've spread must have bankrupted John

But Ed Pedersen likes it. He's already gone
To collect his "Red Devils", a team of great fame,

And feed them free food 'til they're breathing again.

Also present and eating are those champions supreme,

L. Beard and B. Kelley of the Tortoise Ball Team.
Trailing them closely, quite bent at the knees,
Is Prof. Gillis, bowed down by his weighty degrees.

When he lectures on Egypt, the party is done
And all of us go some place else for our fun.
The club of Ruth Wood and Dot Johnson is near,
"Burlington's Nuttings", far-famed for its cheer.

No fighting's allowed and the first in command
Is "Emcee" Jack Moglia, an ax in each hand.
While he splits a few heads, please note, just a few,
Crockett and Carey begin their revue.
I watch all the customers, howling with glee
And find quite a number familiar to me.
There's Casey the Columnist scribbling facts
With a knife, on the handle of John's mighty ax.
I get out my spy-glasses to read every word
And discover some facts which you still haven't heard.
Dupee and Turnbull have gone in the "red".
Their reducing salon erased people instead.
The law has been called by the movies' "Three C's".
Cooper, Carpenter, Chapman want their stars,
if you please.
The rest of the column I'll have to pass by
They have just thrown me out of the club as a spy.
As I sit on the curb, there is a loud crash;
Two cars are wrecked. In the midst of the trash
I see "Freddie" Graham scrambling around
Trying to find his false teeth on the ground.
D. Piper, his partner, rides by in a truck,
Leans out of the cab, and wishes him ruck.
A crowd is collecting. Out goes a call
For that famous detective, H. "Gumshoe" Small.
The false plate is saved, and so is the day.
Happily all of us go on our way.
To reach Fred's abode, we are forced to go by
A house with a sign at least twenty feet high.
"Let Corcoran and Jacobsen lay you to rest.
As Funeral Directors we know we're the best."
Arriving at Fred's house, we see a strange sight.
The door wobbles open, and trembling with fright
Is poor Richard Swanson afraid for his life.
He opened his pay check ahead of his wife.
Standing close by to protect him from harm
Is Kindred the Kop, the law's strongest arm.
In the midst of the tension, the bus comes to a stop
And off jumps J. Williams of the Kent Cleansers
Shop.
" 'Sugar' Ganley's huge husband phoned something is wrong
And told me to bring cleaning fluid along.
He figured someone would be only a blot—."
At this point R.S. left us all like a shot.
And that, my dear friends, is the end of my dream.
You may believe what you like about what we have seen.
If for the name of the author you're huntin',
This is the work of that genius, Lord Bunton.

Although the records show only one victory for the team during the 1949 football season, the boys made a better showing than this record indicates. Because of the lack of material and inexperience, the team lost many of its games which ordinarily could have been won. Much credit must be given to our coach, Mr. Murray, who did a wonderful job, ably assisted by Captain Ed Pedersen. Coach Murray produced a fighting team that made an impression not only on its opponents, but on its followers also.

The scores were as follows:

Burlington	0	Wilmington	12
Burlington	0	Westford Acad.	26
Burlington	0	Leicester	24
Burlington	0	Tewksbury	27
Burlington	12	Dracut	41
Burlington	12	Ayer	12

Row 1 — R. Swanson, J. Kineen, A. Kelly, F. Graham, D. Plummer

Although we cannot definitely say whether or not Burlington is going to have a successful season in baseball, we are all fairly sure that it will. Last year the boys were very impressive and with practically the same team back this year, Coach Murray is hopeful for a very good season. Twelve games have been arranged for this season and with a little hard work from the members of the team, Burlington could very easily end the year with an undefeated team.

Boys' Basketball

Row 3 — W. Cournoyer, D. Plummer, J. Merrigan, R. Kelly, E. Johnson

Row 2 — J. Petersen, E. Johnson, J. Moglia, R. Perkins, E. Collins, J. Galipeau, Mr. Murray

Row 1 — J. Kinneen, E. Pedersen, A. Kelley, F. Graham, C. Taylor, L. Beard

Under the capable guidance of Coach Murray, the Burlington High School basketball team compiled the best record that has ever been made in the history of the school. The team finished the season with an impressive 16 victories and 8 defeats.

One difficulty in scheduling games for Burlington is that a great many of the teams in our class are too far away. A number of the teams which Burlington plays are out of its class as far as enrollment is concerned. This was proved in the recent Eastern Massachusetts Basketball Tourney in which Burlington was placed in its own class and made a very creditable showing. The team defeated the first four teams it faced in the tournament, but was defeated in the final round by Blackstone High. Two of the players, Capt. Bert Kelley and Charles Taylor made the tournament All Star Team.

Co-Captains: Carlene Powers and Harriett Marinacci

Under the supervision of Miss Delaney, the girls' basketball team made a fair showing this year, winning six games and losing nine. Even though the games won didn't total more than the games lost, the team proved to be a very enthusiastic group.
